		A35 / Air Quality	Resp	In	HE	"Thank you for your email dated 10 April 2019 to Mr Roberts regarding Item c. Property Level Mitigation in the minutes of the joint HE / WDDC meeting held on 1 March 2019. At the meeting with Sir Oliver Letwin and other stakeholders held on 30 November 2018, Highways England undertook to investigate options for property level air quality mitigation as one of three actions to explore, seeking to improve air quality at Chideock. Whilst the minutes of the last meeting with the Parish Council state ' see the report when it is completed', Mr Robert's interpretation of the discussion was that Highways England would report on progress of the exploration of property level mitigation. We do not envisage production of a written report to read. Nevertheless progress is being made in exploring various potential property level mitigation options. These essentially consist of air-conditioning type units by either scrubbing or negative pressure to improve air quality within a building. This work is on-going and it is likely that we'll seek a meeting with Dorset's Environmental Health team and representatives from the Parish Council to discuss the issues and options around procurement and deployment. We do not yet know when we will ask to meet the Council and Parish, but will contact you once we do. We hope this answers your enquiry."

There are some questions that the Parish Council consider require further clarification. Whilst it is stated that DVSA does not have a permanent weight facility at Puddletown, in the letter of 26 September 2019 to Sir Oliver Letwin MP, sent by Gareth Llewellyn Chief Executive DVSA (as copy attached), it was stated that DVSA planned to recommence regular checks by November 2018 at this site, including weight checks. Please could you advise whether this weight check facility has now been installed and is fully operational at Puddletown? From the 1-2 days of checks per month that have been carried at Puddletown since late last year, what types of checks were carried out and have there been many HGV's failing these checks? In addition to these checks at Puddletown please confirm that DVSA is still carrying out random HGV checks at the Eype and Turks Head service areas. We appreciate your patience with our delay in responding to your enquiry. Highways England does not 'publish' feasibility studies. We do on occasion share feasibility studies, as appropriate, with interested parties / stakeholders. They are not consultation or policy documents, they are technical appraisals of issues/problems and recommendations for potential mitigation options to inform the development of schemes. In this case we would be happy to share with a Parish Council the relevant village study, but not to a wider audience. An option would be for you to approach the other Parish Councils directly. 22		Sea Hill Lane passing places	Update		Clerk	The BT pole at the end of the top passing place is finally being moved
23	28/03/19		Resp	In	Hilary Jordan WDDC	"There are no height limits for a garage as such, but there are limits to the size of outbuildings that are allowed as permitted development – so planning applications are required for the sorts of buildings you refer to. Conversion and change of use of a garage within a residential curtilage to an additional house does require planning permission and can therefore be controlled through the planning system if it is in an area where additional housing is not considered appropriate. Normally within a defined development boundary it is likely to be acceptable, but outside the defined development boundaries, adopted Policy HOUS6 of the adopted local plan (2015) applies. This allows the subdivision of existing homes where the development can be accommodated within the existing building, and the supporting text (paragraph 5.7.3) says that this does not include ancillary buildings such as garages. In the local plan review 'preferred options' consultation document (2018) we have sought to deal more specifically with the potential problems that can arise through the construction of new ancillary buildings and the risk of their conversion to separate dwellings. The suggested revision to Policy HOUS6 says that 'ancillary domestic buildings' within existing residential curtilages outside the defined development boundaries would only be permitted exceptionally, where certain criteria apply. Obviously the emerging plan carries little weight in decisions at this stage, but we will bear your comments in mind when considering any revisions to this section, and you would be able to have further input during any subsequent consultation stages."
